AGREE ON RATE BILL

By Unanimous Vote Committee Action Arrived At.

SATISFACTORY TO ALL

Democrats and Republicans Decide on a Measure Which They Believe Will Meet With Approval of Both Houses.

Washington, Jan. 24.—After a conference lasting all Tuesday afternoon, the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce agreed upon a rate bill to be known as the Hepburn bill and to be reported to the house with the unanimous recommendation of eighteen members of the committee. In the main the bill is the original Hepburn bill, but a number of concessions were made to the Democrats, and their ideas as set forth in the Davis bill were freely incorporated in the perfected measure.

Chairman Hepburn was congratulated by all the members of his committee on the drafting of the bill on which the two parties could agree and the members of the committee assert confidence that the successful outcome of the long conferences will have marked effect on the attitude of the senate toward the measure. Mr. Hepburn and the other Republicans agreed to accept the wording of the Democratic bill in the provision for fixing the maximum rate. The amendment which was accepted provides that the commission shall fix a "just, reasonable and fairly remunerative rate," which shall be the maximum rate.

It is claimed by the Democrats that under the original Hepburn wording the commission was required to fix the highest of the just, reasonable and fairly remunerative rates in case there were several such rates. Chairman Hepburn and the Republicans do not believe there is any difference in the two wordings, but are perfectly willing to accept the language of the Davis and original Hepburn bill. The amended bill also provides for seven members of the interstate commerce commission, instead of nine as was provided in the original Hepburn bill. Another amendment incorporated at the request of the Democrats provides that in cases where no changes were suggested the commission may simply state its conclusion and not set forth its findings. A section of the Davis bill requiring the attorney general to appear in cases shall file the certificate necessary to expedite the hearing was incorporated in the amended bill.

Another amendment provides that orders of the commission shall continue in force for three years unless repealed. No existing cases are to be affected by the bill and all laws relating to witnesses and the conducting of hearings before the commission are to be continued.

The day's program included papers by C. W. Gates of St. Louis, R. S. Kellogg of the forest service of the Federal government and F. H. Farwell of Orange, Tex.

STATE PRINTER DEAD.

Body of Ed H. Smith Is Found With Throat Cut.

Austin, Jan. 24.—In Pease park, just west of the city, the body of Ed H. Smith, state expert printer, was found Tuesday afternoon with his throat cut from ear to ear. There was a note beside the corpse which read:

"—is responsible for this rash deed. He acted too hastily." The name in the note is that of a printer of this city, but no one has any idea as to what connection he has with the death, or what is intended by the note. The death and note are both complete mysteries.

Smith was an inveterate smoker of cigarettes, but never drank liquor in any manner, shape or form. His domestic relations were most happy, and his work most satisfactory. It is a peculiar case. He was forty-five years old and leaves a widow and one child.

Mr. Smith, who has been in ill health, was to have resigned his position. He served five months, succeeding Wm. S. Hughes, who left the state service to accept a situation with the State Printing company.

STEAMER WRECKED.

She Went Ashore on the Vancouver Island Coast.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Cape Beale says the steamer Valencia, from San Francisco for the Orient, went ashore on the Vancouver coast near Cloose. The lighthouse keeper stated that 100 were drowned. Up to 3 o'clock Wednesday morning details had not been ascertained nor the exact number of casualties. A steamer left Seattle to render aid.

It is stated the Valencia had ninety-four passengers and a crew of sixty.

Nine men got ashore about fifteen miles from here. Two men are prisoners on the face of the cliff, and cannot get up or down to the ship. It now seems the sea will likely reach them when the tide rises high. The men report pathetic scenes. One woman dropped her child in the sea in trying to hand it to her husband. A little boy of five was running around the deck trying to find his mother, who was among the drowned.

COMPRESS CONSUMED.

Jackson, Miss., Has a Most Disastrous Cotton Conflagration.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 24.—Fire destroyed the Mississippi compress here, with 9,500 bales of cotton, entailing a loss estimated at $750,000, with insurance of about two-thirds. The compress plant was worth $150,000. The heaviest losers are the Knoop, Fredrich company of Liverpool, who had 1,100 bales in the compress. The origin of the fire is unknown, but when it was first discovered by the compress employees the fire had gained great headway and when the fire department arrived it was beyond control. Surrounding property was saved after a hard fight.

Captain Dan Scott and five white men of the crew were injured. One, Henry S. Sica, fatally. All of the men live in Natchez. The injured were taken to St. Joseph, La. The boat was owned by Will Conti of Natchez, valued at $25,000, and uninsured.
